This is YOUR paper

"We want a newspaper that presents the Nationalist case, a paper that's interesting, newsy and easy to read. The kind of paper we can give to our friends to prove to them that the way we think is the way they think. We want it to appear as frequently as possible so that it keeps up with the news."

That's what you've been demanding for a long time. And now you have it in the form of Britain First.

It is YOUR paper. If you've got something to say, tell us. Send us your local stories and press clippings.

This way we'll build a paper that says what you think . . . what the British people think!

AS A WORLDWIDE slump looms before us, the Labour, Tory and Liberal Parties are asking the British people to tighten their belts by the imposition of either the so-called Social Contract or some other 'prices and incomes' fraud. When did WE ever cause inflation, and why should we suffer a drop in our standard of living?

Most of us, in factory, shop, office or field, have been doing the same routine tasks day in and day out. We have not done less work for more reward, though many of us have done more work for less reward! So where has all this inflation come from? Of more importance, where has all the benefit from it gone?

The Establishment admits that inflation is worldwide. Well, if every nation is the loser, who then gains at our expense?

Money is only worth what it will buy. International Bankers have pumped out millions of dollars in paper money and credit way ahead of the real production of goods and services. This has led to more and more money chasing relatively fewer goods and hence skyrocketing world prices. Domestic inflation caused by the banks in this country has profited them at the expense of everyone else. Look at the massive profits they have made! But instead of stopping this bloodsucking, the Establishment has hit out at working people! Wages are kept down whilst prices are allowed to rise and vicious cuts have been made in public expenditure.

Owing to the sheer weight of debt that has built up, no fresh injection of borrowed capital can lift us out of depression. We now have inflation and rising unemployment at the same time. So much wealth has been drawn off at the top of the system that people at the bottom are being thrown onto the economic scrapheap. There is a capital shortage for productive industry. Small firms and shops are going bankrupt, larger firms are cutting back, workers are losing their jobs. All this can be avoided because we CAN get a fairly stable general level of prices, but only through a common sense policy of public ownership and control of the banking system, cancellation of present usurious debts, and the ending of the debt system forever. It must be replaced by the introduction of a money supply directly related to our real productive capacity and spent — not lent — into circulation, debt and interest free.

We must also get Britain out of the Common Market because Europe has only reproduced our past problems on a larger scale. Our trade deficit with the original Six has increased to over £2,000 million. We must get together with our natural trade partners — the British settled nations of the Commonwealth — with whom we could build an independent, balanced and mutually advantageous economic partnership. Trade with other countries ought then to be carried on by direct deals on a barter basis cutting out parasitical financial middlemen.

Our programme would benefit the producer, the wage earner and the consumer in Britain and give us all the chance of a steadily rising standard of living and a firm guarantee of secure prosperity. Without these Nationalist policies, the heart-rending sight of the Jarrow marchers above will not be a spectre from the past but the prelude to future decades of despair.

Many aspects of immigration are, to say the least, distasteful to the native British population. Our anger, however, should not be directed towards immigrants but to the politicians who allowed or encouraged the problem. Race hatred is counter-productive and no sympathy can be extended to those who incite it.

ELECTION ACHIEVEMENT

OWING to the delay in the production of Britain First, this is the first opportunity which we have had to comment on the National Front's results in the October General Election.

As it is now so long ago we don't intend to go into detail other than to point out that in comparison with the February Election the NF increased the number of seats contested from 54 to 90; increased its average percentage by 0.3%; and increased the highest individual percentage from 7.8% to 9.4%. The latter was achieved by Robin May in Hackney South. Other good results were achieved by Roy Painter in Tottenham (8.3%) and by Keith Squires in Wood Green (8%).

By far the most important gains, however, were in the form of building up the organizational structure and in recruiting members.

REAL VILLAINS OF SUGAR CRISIS

FED UP housewives were no doubt dismayed at the prospect of further difficulties in obtaining sugar. Yet they should not blame the Tate and Lyle workers for having taken industrial action.

The refinery employees have faced a long period of uncertainty and anxiety about their jobs — which has been caused by the 'stay-in-Europe' policies of successive governments. Blame West Indians and Foreigners for the

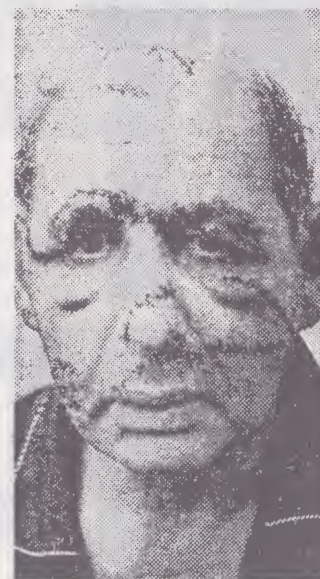

IMMIGRANTS: BEYOND THE LAW?

LARGE parts of London are being reduced to jungle conditions by an ever-increasing rate of violent crime committed by West Indian youths. One of the worst hit areas is the Underground, particularly the Northern Line south of Waterloo.

Tube stations in Clapham, Balham and Tooting are regularly stalked by gangs of muggers sometimes up to twenty strong. They are easily recognised by the teacosies or black berets which they wear as a uniform. This seems to entitle them to free travel. As station staff are afraid to ask for their fares, it is now an accepted norm that they simply walk past ticket collectors.

Their main targets for pick-pocketing, assault and robbery with violence are young girls, women and old men. Station staff have also been attacked, however, prompting London Transport and the Transport and General Workers' Union to urge the Home Secretary to ask magistrates to increase what they now regard as totally inadequate penalties.

policemen were injured. Attacks such as these have resulted in a record number of intakes at the police convalescent home in Hove.

We doubt whether there will be any substantial increase in penalties or sufficient expansion of the police force. As more and more British people come to feel that the law only operates with bias in favour of immigrants, however, then those same British people may start taking direct retaliatory action themselves.

The only long-term solution to mugging, however, is to get rid of

Latest immigration scandals

■ The number of Bangladesh immigrants arriving for permanent settlement in Britain over the next year has been doubled by Mr. Jenkins, the Labour Party's Home Secretary. Wot, no special explanation this time?

■ Some immigrants have, at last, taken advantage of the Government's repatriation scheme — to take holidays in the sun at the British taxpayer's expense. The main culprits are West Indians and the swindle is apparently well known in the Caribbean.

■ In the context of talking about the over-strained education system in the London Borough of Newham, Dr. Scott Wilkie, the borough's director of education, said that there was no knowing or controlling the extent of immigration into the borough, and that the Department of Education and Science made no provision for it.

In an attempt to combat collapsing standards Star School, an infants school in Canning Town, has started twice weekly classes for mothers to learn English!

In St. Bonaventure's Comprehensive, Forest Gate, meanwhile, water pours down one of the stone staircases while rats play in the classrooms.

■ The Labour Government is reported to be planning drastic changes in the Race laws, the main objective being to give increased powers to the Race Board. Board officials would henceforth be able to swoop down on unsuspecting

MORE U.S. GRAIN FOR SOVIETS

THERE is a grain and animal feedstuffs shortage in the 'West'. This is now causing farmers to slaughter calves in Britain, because they cannot afford to feed them at shortage prices. Next year there will be a beef, milk, cheese and butter shortage in home production!

Cook Industries and Continental Grain, meanwhile, are to supply the Soviet Union with 2.2 million tonnes of U.S. wheat and corn.

If it wasn't for the original wheeler-dealing of Michael Fribourg's Continental Grain Company we wouldn't be facing the problems we do now. Fribourg cornered the American grain market and made massive export deals with the Soviet Union. STREET TRADERS ATTACKED

Another target of attacks is street markets. A wave of brutal muggings has hit Dalston's famous Ridley Road street market. One victim of the attacks was the elderly Mr. Louis Maister who needed 200 stitches to stab wounds in the stomach and face. His attackers laughed while one of them stabbed him in the stomach and slashed his face with a knife. Mr. Maister is in his sixties. Another trader carries a nine inch scar across his chest after being mugged. About seventy local shopkeepers and stallholders have held a mass meeting to demand greater police protection.

POLICE ATTACKED

The police themselves, however, are increasingly becoming a target of attacks. In Brixton thirteen police officers were assaulted on duty in September alone, the worst day being September 21, when five

It was originally thought that the Government would be more devious about introducing such legislation. Growing discontent amongst Black youths, however, now worries them more than any reaction from the White British population.

The legislation will probably follow the Equal Opportunities Act which will outlaw sex discrimination. By harmonizing the two pieces of legislation Jenkins hopes to make any opposition to the race reforms seem like opposition to equality of opportunity for women. White British men and women must stand together against this sly multi-racialist attack, and must resist any sexual antagonism which Jenkins and his ilk are trying to instigate by persuading British women that they are only on a par with the immigrant minorities.

We need money to expand. The economic crisis is developing very rapidly. With simultaneous inflation and deflation the living standards and job security of ordinary people are coming under ever increasing attack from the financial system and the international bankers that control it.

The strength of British workers to resist this attack is being undermined by the employment of cheap immigrant labour — a policy in which the trade union bureaucracy is collaborating with the capitalists.

This attack will go hand in hand with social and political repression as the ruling Establishment struggles to maintain its system.

BRITAIN FIRST is vital for preparing the British people to resist these onslaughts. Give all you can and post immediately to the Britain First Fighting Fund, 50 Pawsons Road, Croydon, Surrey.

KINGSLEY READ ELECTED NEW CHAIRMAN OF N.F. DIRECTORATE

KINGSLEY READ, aged 38, is a textile agent and was born in Liverpool. He came from a Blackburn family, however, and moved there at the age of four where he has lived ever since. He was brought up in a two-up and two-down terraced house with flagstone floors and outside lavatory.

He obtained a scholarship to Blackburn Technical High School, and later a Blackburn Major Award to Leeds University. From University he went into the Army.

His basic training was with the Lancashire Fusiliers, after which he became a Royal Army Education Corps Serjeant with the Highland Light Infantry.

Kingsley Read is married with two step-sons, both married, one foster daughter, one daughter and one son.

Kingsley Read is a keen sportsman having been involved in Amateur Wrestling, potholing and rugby. He has played for Blackburn Rugby Club, at University and in the Army. He represented the British Army of the Rhine and Lancashire County at discus throwing, and has taken third place in Lancashire County Championships at discus.

His hobbies include painting and sketching.

He is a member of the British Legion and an honorary holder of the Polish Silver Logia, Second Class, for services to the Polish Ex-Combatants Association in Britain.

Because of his general background his initial inclination was towards Socialism. Because of heavy Communist infiltration into the Labour Party, however, he decided he could best serve his country by becoming active within the Conservative Party. He became disillusioned with the Conservatives, though, owing to their undemocratic nature. He was in political limbo until discovering the National Front.

5,000 ON N.F. REMEMBRANCE DAY PARADE

OVER 5,000 people took part in the National Front Remembrance Day Parade and mass meeting. Kingsley Read, the new Chairman of the NF's National Directorate said that we have been constantly told that we exploited other nations during the days of the Empire, and that we thus owed them a debt giving them the right to come here.

"My family never exploited anyone — they were never in a position to do so," stated Kingsley Read. The very elements who did exploit the Empire also exploited ordinary British people, such as his own grandmother who at the age of nine was working four looms in a local textile factory.

The fact of the matter is that they are still exploiting British people now by creating and playing on a bogus guilt complex.

Kingsley Read then went on to reaffirm the National Front's belief in stopping immigration and organising compulsory repatriation.

Over £1,000 was collected at the meeting.

POVERTY IN BRITAIN: THE APPALLING FACTS

THE abysmal failure to eliminate poverty in Britain has been a characteristic of both successive Tory and Labour governments.

Despite all the sanctimonious promises of the Westminster politicians to take action on behalf of Britain's underprivileged, the poor are still with us.

Of course poverty today is less obvious than it was — but no less real. We no longer see in this country large numbers of people starving in the streets or dressed in rags. Poverty is now hidden away, behind the rotting doors of half-furnished rooms and slum housing. Its evils are manifested in hundreds of thousands of daily domestic tragedies — the harmful strain on family relationships of never having enough to manage on; the degradation of means-tests; the pensioner dying alone from lack of food or hypothermia. Poverty scars peoples' lives. Many people in Britain are born poor and never recover from it. They have the worst health, worst housing, worst education, worst job prospects and much lower incomes than the rest of the British people. Added to their numbers are those not necessarily born into poverty but who fall victims to it, either because of disability, illfrom 6.9 per cent of the total in 1964 to 17.3 per cent in 1972, reflecting the relative increase in poverty.

One basic cause of poverty, is of course low pay. Prof. A.B. Atkinson, in a paper on the cycle of poverty calculates that over 10 per cent of men earned less than £22 in 1972. The man in this group is usually unskilled and because of poverty, particularly vulnerable to sickness. He is unlikely to be in an occupational pension scheme and can rarely afford to buy a house or save for his old age; consequently low pay is a thread

They have the worst health, worst housing, worst education, worst job prospects and much lower incomes than the rest of the British people. Added to their numbers are those not necessarily born into poverty but who fall victims to it, either because of disablement, illness, being left alone to bring up a family, or simply growing old.

How many people are there below the poverty line in Britain? According to independent charity organisations, an astounding one-fifth of the population! And even the recently published official Social Security Statistics for 1972 reveals that the numbers of people on supplementary benefit alone — only given after a means test — including dependents, numbered 4½ million British people, the highest on record. Nearly a million of the dependents were children under 16. Each day one in six of all school dinners is given free to children on account of the poverty of their parents. The number of free meals has had to be increased from 6.9 per cent of the total in 1964 to 17.3 per cent in 1972, reflecting the relative increase in poverty.

One basic cause of poverty, is of course low pay. Prof. A.B. Atkinson, in a paper on the cycle of poverty calculates that over 10 per cent of men earned less than £22 in 1972. The man in this group is usually unskilled and because of poverty, particularly vulnerable to sickness. He is unlikely to be in an occupational pension scheme and can rarely afford to buy a house or save for his old age; consequently, low pay is a thread which runs throughout people's working life and beyond into retirement. The poverty trap also clamps down on those who, after suffering the indignity of a means test, manage to get Family Income Supplement, free school meals, rent or rate rebates etc. The poverty trap operates between £20 and £27 a week. As his pay rises, the worker not only pays more tax but loses his "benefits". It is common for him to lose over half a pay rise and quite possible for his net income to be less because of a rise. Recent statistics have also shown that large scale chronic illness is directly related to poverty, low income and poor housing.

So what can be done to eliminate poverty and the misery it causes to millions of British people? The inadequate measures of recent governments — such as increasing benefits — are never going to eradicate poverty in Britain because they treat the symptoms of this social injustice, not the cause.

Only a crash programme — including, as part of a Nationalist economic plan, full employment, a decent basic minimum wage, and substantial housing grants — will attack the root of the problem, eliminating this curse on modern Britain once and for all.

Where would the money for such a programme come from? The answer lies in the overthrow of the whole finance-Capitalist system. Once the nation's productive capacity has been freed from the slavery of debt and interest payments, our industry can be totally reorganized eliminating the needless under-production which is an inherent product of our existing system. The rise in the general level of the standard of living would be more than enough to give really generous help to the underprivileged.

Poverty in a section of our society is an insult to the rest of us and an obstacle to the Nation's progress and potential. It will certainly not be tolerated in the coming Nationalist Britain.

SCHOOL STUDENTS LEAD THE WAY

by DAVE McCALDEN

BRITISH school students around the country have given the Establishment a foretaste of what is to come in General Elections in a few years' time. The school students vigorously rejected the tired old policies of the major parties and instead voted in vast numbers for National Front candidates. At one school in Lancashire the NF candidate positively swept all opposition aside in a well-planned and exercised campaign.

ACCRINGTON SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, Accrington, Lancs.

A magnificent victory for the National Front candidate, Wendy Pickering. This result illustrated more than any other how well our school students are standing up to the Establishment's multi-racialist, internationalist brain-washing techniques.

Although candidates at this school were permitted to use advertising literature around the school, a History 'teacher' complained to the Headmaster about NFSA School Student leaflets being distributed, and these were subsequently banned on the grounds that "they did not have a good effect on the school". The same 'teacher' has denounced the NF during lessons and shouted "this movement must be smashed" in a fit of paranoid hysteria. One of his colleagues, a Marxist Economics 'teacher', who advocates "violent revolution, even though people may be killed" in class, himself stood as a candidate, despite the fact that all the other candidates were students. However, in order to make his policies more acceptable, he switched horses half-way through the race, from being an Independent Socialist to a Liberal. Full marks to the NFSA candidate for polling such a good result under such difficult circumstances.

students who were prepared to stand for the National Front in such difficult circumstances. They were not only prepared to oppose fellow students who had the backing of wealthy, nationally-advertised Establishment parties, but also their own teachers, who in many cases actually attempted to use their professional positions to sabotage the NF campaign. The future of the NF is secure if we can continue to recruit such free-thinking, independent-minded and brave young people such as these.

CAUTION: BRAINWASHERS AT WORK

At a meeting in the Commonwealth Institute last October Mr. Clyde Robinson of Uplands School, Leicester revealed some of his "educational" techniques in a seminar entitled "Education for a Multi-Racial Britain". The tone of the meeting was set when Mr. Robinson announced that the National Front (gasp from the audience) was organising a petition in a neighbouring school to protest at British children being shoved out into the playground in all weathers whilst their classrooms were used for the teaching of English to Asian women. He then went on to describe his own activities, including his very own "Parent Project". First, he got a grant of £8000 from the Community Relations Commission to give the scheme a sound financial base. He then sent a note round to all the parents telling them that unless they came to help out in the school, their children's education would suffer. This, he admitted, was a lie. Once in school, the parents were organised into multi-racial groups to look after groups of children and make sandwiches etc. The school was used as a centre for protest against rents and the lack of facilities in the area. Mr. Robinson stated that this tactic was merely a ploy for getting parents involved in the school. In the evenings Asian

THE NATIONAL FRONT

IN THIS CENTURY our essentially Capitalist society has been faced with two serious competitors: first, the so-called 'Left' represented by Socialism and Communism; and secondly, the so-called 'Right' represented by Fascism and Nazism. We use the word 'competitors' rather than 'enemies' because both these manifestations have played their parts within the rules of the existing system.

Both have simply sought to replace the existing Capitalist oligarchy with another tyrannical ruling class. Having ideologically consigned themselves to be competitors rather than opponents, it was an easy step to actual practical political and financial collaboration with the existing system.

Though both Communists and Fascists would deny or excuse their own collaboration while simultaneously slateing each other, we are able to take a totally objective view.

The major foreign trade banks of Poland and Romania, for example, have recently been allocated a new type of credit by the United States Export-Import Bank. The amounts said to have been involved were $5,000,000 to Romania and $10,000,000 to Poland. These credits will create a debt to be repaid out of real production.

Mussolini's Italy, likewise, depended on loans from the Morgan banking outfit; while, Hitler was also backed by International Financiers and eventually liquidated those inside his Party whose radicalism he had earlier tolerated and used because their ideological differences had not then crystalized into actual opposition to his own personal power.

We believe that such compromises and betrayals as

One of his colleagues, a Marxist Economics 'teacher', who advocates "violent revolution, even though people may be killed" in class, himself stood as a candidate, despite the fact that all the other candidates were students. However, in order to make his policies more acceptable, he switched horses half-way through the race, from being an Independent Socialist to a Liberal. Full marks to the NFSA candidate for polling such a good result under such difficult circumstances.

Mr. Robinson also introduced a pupil and teacher swap programme, whereby coloured children were exchanged for about two weeks with Whites from a rural, middle class school. This involved White children living with immigrant families and vice versa.

Amongst Mr. Robinson's other exploits were the compulsory playing of games which were so rigged that White children could not win, and therefore feel superior, the organisation of extra Saturday classes for backward Blacks and Asians (Mr. Robinson added that it was important to include some White so that people could not say that the courses were only for immigrants), the forcing of White children to eat Asian and West Indian dinners and the organisation of strictly multi-racial camps.

We believe that such compromises and betrayals as have been made by the traditional 'Left' and 'Right' have been the inevitable product of rule by an authoritarian oligarchy. For this reason we are irrevocably committed to a belief in democratic nationalism, and reject all forms of authoritarianism.

As far as we're concerned the concepts of nationalism and democracy are inseparable. A ruling oligarchy rules in nobody's interest but its own. The only way to ensure government in the interest of the nation is to promote the greatest possible degree of national democracy. We should not be continually searching for 'leaders', but educating the people to realize their own potential power.

If the people in this country had their way we would not be in the Common Market and we would not have seen the importation of millions of coloured immigrants. What we need is more democracy not less.

Our dedication to democracy is not something put in the National Front Statement of Policy to fool public opinion. It's put there because we genuinely believe in it. If would-be authoritarians don't like our democratic beliefs then they shouldn't join the National Front.

Those who do join the National Front are bound by its own internal democratic structure. Unlike the Tory and Labour Parties the National Front is unique in having no 'fuhrer' or leader. Leadership is exercised collectively by a twenty man central committee known as the National Directorate, whose members are democratically elected by a postal ballot of the whole membership. These in turn elect a Chairman from amongst their own ranks to convene

Mr. Robinson stated that he believed that it is vital to get more Black teachers, so that Blacks' aspirations could be raised. He stated that the James Webb College in Leicester went out of its way to help mature Black students to get their A-levels, so that they could go on to become student teachers.

The lovable Mr. Robinson is also applying to the Home Office for a grant to finance a new project to cater for West Indian children who have left home. When he was asked what he thought about National Front members becoming teachers he replied that they should not be allowed to teach in multi-racial schools.

Mr. Robinson's speech was criticised by one Black member of the audience who complained that he had not taken into account the role of Blacks in the workers' revolutionary struggle. Another negro, a Mr. Jacobs, complained that Mr. Robinson should have mentioned the eventual necessity for the repatriation of West Indians. Mr. Jacobs stated that Blacks had absolutely no right to stay in this country and that he was a supporter of Enoch Powell.

The meeting concluded with the chairman, Sir Ronald Gould, commenting on how lucky the children of Uplands were to have a headmaster like Mr. Robinson.

The NF seeks to promote in Britain a genuinely democratic political system — as distinct from the boughs democracy of the present whereby the wishes of the people are ignored in the making of major decisions and whereby power lies, not with the people themselves, but with the big moneyed interests who are able to control the political parties for their own ends.
